Love is a powerful feeling. A person can see the world for all it's beauty in each and every day we are here – time is precious and fragile. To see a smile on his face when he saw an old friend always made him so happy. "We are only here for a little while – we are only passing through. We have to make the best of what we have. We can rest and heal, but we have to still keep going; we can't give up," Dad would say.

Our lives have changed so much in the past four months. They were preparing us for what would lie ahead for our family. It's something we all don't want to face but its part of the circle of life.

With humble hearts we are forever grateful for all the messages of condolences and your prayers will help us heal.

We would like to say we are forever grateful "Muhsi Cho."

*WITH LOVE: Ken Thomas and children;
Karen and Dave Felker; Doris and Clarence Minoza;
Kelly and Barney Norn; and numerous grandchildren*
